Project Details

Location: Leeds

Product: UNITY Aluminium Rainscreen Panels

Finishes: Anodised silver and two tone striped anodised bronze

The University of Leeds new Nexus Innovation and Enterprise centre is a stunning example of how a building's modern exterior envelope can sit harmoniously within an existing campus setting. Over 3000m² of aluminium rainscreen panels were supplied in varying lengths up to 4000mm length x 2000mm wide. The panels were then individually referenced and then installed together to achieve the desired effect. In addition Metalline also supplied fascias and soffits together with their range of perforated rainscreen panels, finished in a black polyester powder coating that added a further dimension to the finish of the building's façade.
